

Dipl.-Psych. Mauritius Lohmer

“Structured” and “flexible” – two essential consulting qualities which need to be combined to generate success.

Current positions and responsibilities

- Partner at osb Wien Consulting GmbH
- Organizational consultant and management trainer in the areas of strategic development, organizational design, business process optimization, and coaching of management teams

Recent consulting activities

- Implementation of business and business process optimization for commercial enterprises
- Consulting on strategic repositioning for companies in the steel and home appliance sector
- Implementation of business reengineering projects in the consumer goods sector
- Implementation of best practice sharing with companies from Silicon Valley, California, and of European benchmarking processes
- Providing support for organizational development projects for companies in the agricultural sector
- Management coaching in various companies in the electrical industry

Professional background

- Studies in psychology in Hamburg and Berkeley, California
- Senior management consultant at Siemens AG, Munich
- International advanced training (Sloan School of Management, Best Practice Sharing, Shanghai, Kyoto, etc.)
- 18 years of experience as an organizational consultant in numerous international corporations

“To me, systemic consulting means uniting and utilizing the different logics of the market, the company, and the social units in such a way that radical changes may be ‘directed’.”

Dipl.-Psych. Mauritius Lohmer